<sup>1</sup> Note: this list of the management that applies in each Type 2 MPA is not intended to be exhaustive. Other protections may also apply in these areas, for example: lower bag limits, no take of individual fish species, and species protected by virtue of New Zealand-wide protection, eg white pointer sharks, marine mammals. Some restrictions may apply to a wider area than that identified as an MPA (eg restrictions on trawling and setnetting exist over extensive areas of the coast).

<sup>2</sup> There are exceptions for some sorts of vessels and fishing activities; the exceptions vary dependent on the CPZ. The restrictions are aimed primarily at protecting submarine cables and pipes, and consequently protect the seabed.
